

Subject

Politics

Curriculum Lead

George Irwin

Curriculum Intent Summary:

Politics at UAI prepares pupils for many forms of employment as well as further study. It helps mould them into more informed citizens with which comes the ability to appreciate their own social position and feel more empathy towards the plights of others. Students gain many analytical and practical skills including the ability to conduct research, oral and written communication and IT, all of which are invaluable in today's employment market. Students will develop and use a variety of skills on the following areas:

- The UK and the USA's political system;
- Knowledge of concepts of political experience locally, nationally and globally as individuals;
- Awareness of multiple political traditions and to have explored perennial questions of how societies govern themselves and address problems of power
- Knowledge of appropriate methods and modes of inquiry, including statistical and interpretive techniques to systematically approach the study of political problems
- An ability to communicate clearly and persuasively in both oral and written form